The Australian Cost Engineering Society (ACES) Vic Newsletter - November 2018

Welcome to our 4th Newsletter of 2018. Following our excellent seminar on Modelling Operations with Gordon New of Ronson Gears and Nathan Hall, a consultant to SNC Lavalin, we are now looking forward to the Project Controls Expo at the 'G on Thursday 22 November 2018.

Please note the early bird fee has closed and it is now $200 plus GST but the ACES discount still applies.
- As ACES members, to get the 50% discount, use the code "ACES 124".
- I am informed Lance Stevenson will attend. As you would be aware, he is the author of the Second Edition of AACE International's "Total Cost Management Framework". .

We hope you enjoy this edition and look forward to meeting you at the events. Remember, we would like to hear from you about topics for future seminars. – ACES Vic Committe

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ACES Website Now Live and available at https://costengineer.org.au

As our previous website manager has moved on, the ACES Vic Division are seeking an Administrator volunteer to keep the website up to date. The new website is hoped to improve member engagement, improve accessibility of education and training and increase awareness of and attendance at professional meetings, conferences and social events of ACES. Volunteers please contact John Paterson or Simon Wong.
